RARE WINES WIN FOR TWO LUCKY TRUSTNET SURVEY RESPONDENTS!

A recent survey by fund information website Trustnet and cru Investment Management has netted two loyal Trustnet users rare, collectable wine to a total value of £4,400.

The two vintage wines, endorsed by wine expert, Robert Parker, were won by financial adviser Neil Goldie, who received a bottle of Chateau Haut-Brion 1945, worth £3,200 and private investor Chris Quin, now the delighted owner of a bottle of Chateau Cheval Blanc 1961, worth £1,200. Both wines were hand selected by the CEO at cru Investment Management, Jon Maguire.

The Trustnet Survey, conducted in July, invited Trustnet users to contribute to user trends and investor sentiment. An executive summary of the survey findings is available upon request.

Paul Wynne, Trustnet head of marketing and communication says:

"The two winners were absolutely delighted by cru's generous incentive. Both now face the difficult choice of whether to share it with friends and family, start their own collection, or secretly enjoy the wine by themselves!"

cru Investment Management

cru Investment Management was founded to offer a more relevant approach to the investment needs of the private client, majoring on absolute returns. This approach is based on an analysis of likely future returns from any asset and the skill of any investment specialist manager of that asset to add further returns. We aim to deliver returns ahead of cash, and to seek to do so over periods of at least five years. We aim not to leave our clients at the mercy and vagary of stock markets. Instead we seek to combine a variety of assets and investment approaches to deliver, over the long term, positive returns on a consistent basis.

The executive team is led by Jon Maguire, formerly Investment Development Director of Legal & General Investment Management and Chair of Investment Classification at the Association of British Insurers. Please note that your capital is at risk if you invest with us. cru Investment Management is an Appointed Representative of SD Asset Management Ltd (190179) who is regulated and authorised by the Financial Services Authority.
